SalesPad's path to the cloud

What is Bridge?

Bridge connects the powerful operational capabilities of SalesPad to the accounting backend of Business Central. This integration minimizes the cost and complexity of traditional ERP implementation while leaving your operations uninterrupted. Keep making the most of your SalesPad investment while you prepare your business for whatever comes next.

Use Bridge if:

- Your customized environment would be difficult and expensive to replicate in the cloud
- You want to avoid the disruption caused by a full-scale ERP migration
- You're ready to move your financial management to the cloud but want to stick with SalesPad for operations
- You want to take advantage of Microsoft's licensing offer for Business Central

Move on your own terms.

Don't abandon your tried-and-true platform prematurely. Connect Bridge to your SalesPad instance to start sending data to the cloud while your operations remain on-premises. Minimize ERP migration pains, save money, and set yourself up for a successful transition to the cloud when you're ready.
